A Collection in English, of the Statuts now in force, continued from the beginning of MAGNA CHARTA, made in the 9. yeere of the raigne of King H. 3. Vntill the end of the parliament holden in the 35. yere of the raigne *of our gratious Queene Elizabeth, vnder Titles placed by order of Al-*phabet: wherein is performed (touching the Statutes wherewith Iustices of the *Peace haue to deale) so much as was promised in the Booke of their office late-*ly published. For which purpose also the Statutes concerning those Iustices haue this marke ☞ at the beginning, and this marke * at the ende of them, noted in the margent ouer against the same.

Hereunto is added two Tables: the one at the beginning of the Book, declaring vnder titles by order of alphabet the substance of such referments as stoode at the end of eche Title in the first Collection of Statutes, set forth by Master Iustice RASTAL. And in this Table, the title of Iustices of the peace is speciallie perused and amended, for their more easie finding of matters in this Booke, concerning their authoritie.

In the other Table (being at the ende of this booke) are set downe by order of the kings raigns, the seuerall times of their Parliaments, together with *the sundry Chapters and intitulings of the particular Statutes in euerie of the same: wher-*by the Reader may easilie finde vnder what Title, and in what leafe of this Booke, any of these Statutes be placed: and may also (by helpe of certaine hands prefixed to diuers of them) readilie see, what, and how manie Statutes in eche Kings raigne, do concern the Iustices of peace, and in what leafe of this Booke to find them.

William Raſtall Serieant

at Law, to the gentle Reader.

Ere haue ye (gentle Readers) a Collection of the Statutes of Engl̃ad (from the beginning of MAGNA CHARTA, vnto this preſent time) which were before this yeere imprinted, and which be now in force and effect.

The printed Statutes, expired, or repealed, or cõcerning priuate perſons, or ſome priuate places, I haue (for the moſt parte) left out of this worke, ſauing that of them I haue made in their apt titles (as I think) a briefe remembrance.

The reſidue of the Statutes imprinted, haue I put in this worke (as I ſuppoſe) in their apt titles, word for word, as they be in the great Statutes: only leauing out, as well certaine ſuperfluous wordes, as alſo the moſt parte of the preambles, for that I feared, that if I ſhould haue put in all the preambles, this booke would haue growen ſo bigge, and ſo thicke, that it would not haue been contained in this volume. Neuertheleſſe I haue (I truſt) put in thoſe preambles, without which the body of the Statutes cannot be well perceiued.

But yet truſt not, that all the Statutes that I haue put at large in this booke, doe ſtand in force: for percaſe ſome of them be repealed by other Statutes made after, by ſpeciall or generall wordes, which for lacke of leaſure I could not throughly conſider. I haue noted in the Margent of euerie Statute certaine words, and that for three cauſes.

The firſt, for that, that many of the ſtatutes be long, and containe manie ſeuerall matters (of which percaſe you would manie times gladly, ſhortlie finde out ſome one, without tedious ſpending of the time in reading ouer the whole ſtatute) therefore by peruſing the wordes in the margent, ye may quickly conceiue, what matters be in that ſtatute, whereby ye may readilie finde out the matter that you would reade of in that Statute.

The ſecond cauſe is, that the wordes in the Margent well conſidered, ſhall ſtand you in as good ſteede, as ſhould a ſpeciall Calender.

The third cauſe is, becauſe that manie Statutes containe diuers matters, that neceſſarilie were to be put in diuers ſeuerall Titles apt for thoſe ſeuerall matters, and ſo ſhould diuers matters aptly bee put in this Booke twiſe or thriſe, or percaſe in moe places in their diuers apt Titles, were it not that then this booke would haue been too bigge, therefore the words in the Margent, do ſhortly ſhew you thoſe ſeuerall matters apte for other titles.

Note that the wordes in the different letter within the Parentheſes () be not the wordes of the Statute, but my words planted in there, for the better vnderſtanding of the Statute.

And although I haue put the Statutes here at large, yet wil I aduiſe euerie ſuch of you, as ſhall haue anie matter of importance, concerning anie ſtatute in this booke, not to truſt altogether to this booke: But reade you ouer diligentlie the Acte with the Preamble thereof, in the great bookes of ſtatutes, out of which I tooke this. This aduice I giue you for two cauſes: The one, for that, that reading the Preamble with the Statute, it ſhall many times giue you much light for the true vnderſtanding of the Statute: where if yee reade the Statute in this booke without the Preamble, the vnderſtanding of the Statute may be to you oft time confuſed. The other cauſe is, for that, that perhaps diuers faultes be eſcaped in this worke, ſome for lacke of diligence of the Printer, and ſome by my default, for lacke of laiſure to conſider, and aduiſedly to peruſe and ouerſee this worke after I had finiſhed it.

Note alſo that in the end of euery referment of the two Tables, you ſhall find the one of theſe foure letters, A. B. C. D. which doe ſignifie, the firſt, ſecond, third, and fourth Columne of euery leafe. VALE.

A Table (in order of Alphabet) for the readie finding of the seuerall titles conteyned in this volume: whereunto are added the substance of such references as stand at the end of each title in the collections of the Statutes before this time published.

freholders of small tenementes in their great manors,) haue cõplained that they cannot make their profite of the residue of their manors, as of their waste woods and pastures, whereas notwithstanding the same feffées may haue sufficient pasture as much as appertaineth to their holde. Thus it is prouided & granted, that when soeuer such feoffées doe bring an Assise of Nouel disseisin for their cõmon of pasture, And it is acknowledged before the Justiciers, that they haue asmuch pasture as sufficeth for their hold, and that they haue frée egresse & regresse from their hold vnto the pasture, then let them be contented therewith, and the on whom they haue complained, shall goe quite, for that they haue made their profit of their lãds, waste woods & pastures. And if they alledge that they haue not sufficient pasture, or sufficient egresse & regresse according to their hold, then let the trueth be inquired by assise. And if it be found by the Assise, that the same beforesaid haue disturbed them of their egresse or regresse in any thing, or that they haue not sufficient pasture (as is aforesaid) then shall they recouer their seisin by the view of the Enquest, so that by their discretion and othe, the plaintifes shall haue sufficient pasture, and sufficient egresse and regresse, in forme aforesaid. And the disseisors shall be amerced, & shall yéeld damages as they were wont before this prouision. And if it be certified by the Assise, that the plaintifes haue sufficient pasture, with frée and sufficient egresse & regresse, as before is said, let the other make their profite or approuement of the residue, and goe quite of the Assise, Merton cap.4.An.20.H.3.

2 ¶ As in a Statute made at Merton (before 1.) it was graunted, that Lords of waste woods and pastures might improue the said waste woods & pastures, notwithstanding the contradiction of the tenants, so that tenants had sufficient pasture to their hold, with frée egresse & regresse to the same. Periurie Jurors

10 ¶ Our soueraigne lord the king, by the grieuous complaint of his commons, considering the great mischiefs had within the Realme, and yet not remedied, and also the great damage and disinheritance that commeth by the vsual periurie of Jurors impanelled in enquestes, aswell in the Courtes of our Soueraigne Lord the king, as of other, the which periurie aboundeth and increaseth daily more then it was wont, for the great gifts that such Jurors take of the parties in plees sued in the said Courts, in so much that the greater part of the people that haue to sue in the said Courts, leaue their suites for the mischiefe aforesaid, and namely for cause of the delayes that be in the writs of Attaint, for that in times past in writs of attaint when the graund Jurie had appeared in Court, and were readie to passe, one of the tenants or defendants, or of the petite Jurors named in such writs, sometime haue pleaded false and faint plees, which were not triable by ỹ graund Jury of the attaint, and by that cause delaied the taking of such graund Juries, til such plees were tried: And afore such plees tried and found for the plaintife, another of the Jurors, tenants or defendants might plead another such false and faint plee, after the last continuance in the same attaints, and so euery of the defendants, Jurors, or tenants after other might plead such false and faint plee, and delaye the graund Jurie when it was readie to passe. And though that all such false and faint plees were found against thẽ which pleaded them, no paine was ginẽ to them by the common lawe. For cause of which delaies the graund Juries in Attaintes haue bin grieuously vered and trauailed, and the plaintifes in such Attaints put to so great costs, and thereby impouerished, that they might not sue forth their saide suites, wherefore the Jurors be the more incouraged to be periured and make their false othes in such cases: Our saide Soueraigne Lorde the king, willing vpon that to prouide remedie, at the request of the saide Commons, and by the assent of the Lordes abouesaide, hath ordained and stablished, that the parties plaintifes in all such Attaints, shall recouer their damages and costes against all such tenãts, Jurors and defendants, which they haue sustained in that behalfe, Anno 11. 6 ¶ Whereas by the former part of the statute made in the xviii. yēre of the Quēnes Maiesties raigne, and by the Proniso in the end of the same statute, the intent and meaning is, that the contribution money of the landes and tenements contributorie to the repaire and maintenance of Rochester Bridge in the County of Kēt, ought from time to time to be tared by the two Wardens and xii. Assistāts, of the saide Bridge, or by the more part of them (when nēde of such contribution should require) for supply of those reparations of the saide bridge, which the reuenues of the landes proper & belonging to the saide bridge will not suffice to doe. And whereas the said ii. Wardens and xii. assistants, be euery yere elected of the owners of lands cōtributorie as is aforesaide, & the

Bee it therefore declared, explained, ordained and enacted by authority of this present parliament, that from time to time hereafter, as often as the rents or other profits of the landes proper and belonging to the said bridge, shall not be sufficient to beare the charge of reparations of the said bridge, the saide two Wardens & xij. And for a conuenient assemblie to make a due election of such Wardens and assistants yerely, as will be careful for maintenãce of the sayd Bridge: It is further ordayned and enacted by authoritie aforesaide, that euery yære at the election of the saide two Wardens and xii. Double subsidie

The King considering that notwithstanding the same ordinance, Marchants do not regard to defraud him of his duetie of the said Subsidie, in asmuch as they do nothing for faire in that behalfe, but onely pay the double subsidie: By the aduise, assent, and authoritie aforesaid, hath ordeined and established, that the same statute in this behalf be void, and of no strength. And if any Marchandizes which be to be brought frō the parties beyond the Sea, or to be carried out of this Realm, whereof any subsidie is or shalbe due, or perteining to the King, be hereafter shipped to be caried beyond the Sea, the Collectors of the said Subsidie not payed, or without agreement with the Collectors of the said subsidie for the same: That then the saide marchandizes, or the value therof shalbe forfait to the king. Also whereas diuers Marchant strangers, & other oftentimes in the Citie of London, and in other places, haue packed diuers woollen clothes, some in graine, some ungrained, & other clothes not grained, & the same so packed caused to be caried by land from London, & other places to other portes, as to Sandwich, Southhampton, and other portes, whereas the Customers for the time being, without due packing or sight of such clothes, vpō the information of the Marchant, doe custome such clothes as for course clothes, wherby the king is greatly deceiued of his duetes thereof, aswell in the fineneſſe of such clothes, as in not knowing of the number of the clothes so packed: Therefore the king by thaduise and assent aforesaid, and by the same authoritie, doth ordeine, establish, and enact, that in euery Port within this Realme of England, wherein any woollen clothes shalbe packed, after the first day of May next comming, in the presence of the Collectors of the aforesaide Customes & subsidies of the same Port for the time being, that all such customes and subsidies, due and pertaining to the king for the said clothes, shalbe payed and contented to the same Collectors where the said clothes be so packed, or els sufficient sureties shalbe therefore to them found, before that the same clothes bee carryed from the said Port, to any other Port or place, vpon paine of forfaiture of all the same clothes, or the value therof, to be had of the owner of the same. And if any woollen clothes to be carried ouer the Sea, be packed in any other manner, or vnder any other forme: that then the Collectors of the Port where they be so packed, or brought to be packed, shall seise, & there vnpacke all the said packes and fardels, and survey all the clothes therein, so that our soueraigne Lorde the King may be truely answered of his duitie in this behalfe, without any fraud or deceit. And if any Customer or Comptroller of anye Port or place be negligent or slack, in vnpacking of the said clothes, or surueying of them, in the forme aforesaid: that then and as often euery such Customer and Comptroller, for euery such default, shall forfait to our Soueraigne Lord the king xx.s for euery such Cloth.

Writ

3 ¶ In case where the husband being impleaded for land, giuing vp the land demaūded vnto his aduersarie by couin, after the death of the husband, the Iusticers shal award the wife of her Dower, if she demaūd it by writ. But in case where the husbād leeseth it by default, the lād being in demaund, & the wife after the death of her husband demaūded her dower, it hath bene seene that some Iusticers haue awarded vnto the woman her dower, notwithstanding the default which her husbande made, other Iusticers being of ỳ contrary opinion, & iudging otherwise. To the intent that from heereforth such ambiguitie shalbe taken away and put in certaine: It is prouided, that in both cases the womā demaūding her dower, shalbe heard. And if it be alleaged against her, that her husbād lost the land, wherof the dower is demaūded by iudgement, wherby she ought not to haue Dower, & then it be inquired by what iudgement, & it bee found that it was by default, whereunto the tenaunt must answere: then it behoueth him to answere further, and to shew that he had right, and hath in the foresaid land, according to the forme of the writ, that the tenant before purchased against the husbād. And if he cā shew, that the husbād of such wife had no right in the landes, nor none other but he, the tenāt shalbe quite, & the wife shal recouer nought of her Dower, which thing if he cannot shew, ỳ wife shal recouer her dower. And so in these cases, and in certaine other following: that is to say, when the wife being indowed leeseth her dower by default, and tenants in frē marriage, by the lawe of England, or for terme of life, or in fē taile, diuers actions doe concurre for such tenants, when they must demaūd the lād lost by default. And when it is come to that point, that the tenant must be cōpelled to shew his right, forasmuch as the law will not cōpel them to make answere without them to whom the reuersion belongeth: therfore they are suffered to vouch to warrantie, according to the tenor of the writte, as if they were tenants. And if they haue a warrantie, when the warranto' hath warrāted, the plea shal passe betweene him that is seised & the warranto', according to the tenour of the writ that the tenant purchased before, & by which he recouered by default, & so from manie actions, at length they shal resort to one iudgement, which is this, that either the demaūdants shall recouer their demaund, or the tenants shall goe quite. And if ỳ action of such tenant, which is compelled to shew his right, be moued by a writ of right, though that the great assise or battaile, cannot be ioyned by ỳ words accustomed, yet it shalbe ioined by words conuenient & vsed: for when the tenant in ỳ that he sheweth his right which belongeth to him by the writ that he before purchased in steed of a demaūdant, the warranto' may well defend the right of the tenant, which cōmeth in place of the demaundant, as before is said, and alledge the seisin of his auncestor, & to defend it by the bodie of a freeman, or put himselfe in the great Assise, & pray recognisance to be made thereof whether he hath more right to the land being in demaund, or els the partie before named: or it may be ioyned otherwise by the great Assise, & so the warrāto' may defend the right, & knowledge the seisin of his auncestor, & put himselfe in the great assise &c. & pray recognisance to be made, whether he hath more right in the foresaid land, as in that wherof he infeffed such a mā, or that such a one released & quite claime &c. or els the aforesaid partie &c. And where sometime it chanceth that a woman which is not endowed of the lād of an heire being within age, doth purchase a writ of dower against a gardein, & the gardein indoweth ỳ womā by fauor, or maketh default, or by collusion defendeth the plea so faintly, wherby the wife is awarded her dower in prejudice of the heire: It is prouided, that the heire, when he commeth to full age, shall haue

69 ¶ Where in the Parliament vpõ Prorogation holden at Westminster the xviii. of Januarie in the fifth yeere of the raigne of the late king of famous memorie Edward the sixth, one Act was made for true making of wollen clothes: by which Act amongest other things it was enacted, that from and after the feast of Saint Michael the Archangell nert ensuing the making of the saide Act, no person or persons should put any haire, flore or any yarne of lambes Wool into any cloth, kersey, frize or cotton, made & sold, or offered to be solde, as in the saide Act is expressed, vpon paine to forfait euery cloth, kersey, frize and cotton, wherein any such yarn, haire or flore should be put, or the value of such cloth, kersey, frize or cotton, as by the said Act it doth and may appeare. And whereas by another act made in the Parliament holden at Westminster in the vii. yeere of the raigne of the said late king, intituled, An act for the making of plaine white streites, & pinned white straites in Deuon and Cornewal, the saide former acte was altered, and libertie giuen to the makers of the saide clothes called plaine white straites and pinned white streites, to vse in making of the said clothes, flore, haire or yarne made of lambes wool, and by the saide statute diuers rules and orders were appointed for making of the saide clothes called plaine white straites, and pinned white straites, as by the said statute doth appeare: Now for that the orders and rules both by the said statute made in the said fift yeere, as also in the saide seuenth yeere of the saide late king Edwarde the sixth, tend to the vtter vndoing and decay of great numbers and multitudes of people which liue by the trade of clothing, & are not profitable any longer to be kept in these Countries and places, where the said clothes called plaine white straites and pinned white straites are vsually made, the same clothes being but a base and course kinde of clothes, vsually made for ỳ vse of poore people beyond ỳ Seas, and most commonly shipped into Britaine, and there vttered for a Marchandise to serue the vse of ỳ poore sort there: And especially for that sithence the making of the said statutes, the yarn wherwith the said clothes called plaine white straites and pinned white straites are vsually made to the great benefite of the poore people where the same are made, is growen smaller and finer, whereby many more poore people are set on worke with spinning of the same, then eyther at or before the making of any the saide seuerall statutes they were, so that the weight, length and breedth cannot agree, as before it did in making of the saide clothes.

Bee it therefore enacted, &c. that the branch made in the said fifth yeere, which prohibiteth putting of haire, flore or yarn made of lambes wool into any cloth or frize, hauing regard vnto the said clothes
